

A certificate is the lowest level of all degree types, and is most commonly achieved as a means of career preparation. Certificates are often granted for very concentrated areas of study.

A criminal justice certificate can help individuals to prepare for a career in law enforcement and related fields while helping improve their attractiveness as a job candidate. While not all police departments require a college degree, many departments require some college credit or give preference to applicants with college experience.